

Awakening Minds in Geography

We will encourage an inquisitiveness and excitement about the world by introducing a range of people, places, processes and resources in physical and human environments. As pupils progress, they will grow in knowledge and skills, which will help them develop their understanding of different environments at different scales. They will also appreciate the diversity of cultures there are in the world.

Achieving Dreams in Geography

As teachers of Geography, central to our role is informing future citizens of the global society they live in. Our curriculum will develop pupils' understanding of how their lives are both shaped by and have a impact on the environments they inhabit. They will understand the interdependence of the world and the humans who inhabit it. This will prepare our pupils to engage with the world around them. The main purpose of the Geography curriculum is to teach geographical knowledge for its own intrinsic value. By doing this well, it will result in other benefits that will build character for our pupils, further social justice and an understanding of how to do this in our pupils and preparing our pupils for the workplace.

Serving Others in Geography

Encourage a culture where all students feel confident to contribute during lessons, where all learn from the participation of others and where students encourage and support each other to become enthusiastic and engaged learners.